

The Honorable Richard A. Jones

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

OREGON MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY

Plaintiff,

vs.

BREANNE BARKLEY

Defendant.

No. 2:18-cv-01342-RAJ

ORDER DENYING DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS

This matter comes before the Court on Defendant's Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Personal Jurisdiction and Improper Venue (Dkt. # 9). Having considered the submissions of the parties, the relevant portions of the record, and the applicable law, the Court finds that oral argument is unnecessary. For the reasons stated below, Defendant's Motion is DENIED. Dkt. # 9.

I. BACKGROUND

The following is taken from Plaintiff's Complaint (Dkt. # 1), which is assumed to be true for the purposes of this motion to dismiss, along with any declarations filed by the parties.¹ Sanders v. Brown, 504 F.3d 903, 910 (9th Cir. 2007). Plaintiff Oregon

¹ Defendant contends that Plaintiff introduced several new arguments and submitted new evidence for the first time in support of her Reply. As a general rule, a "movant may not raise new facts or arguments in [a] reply brief." Quinstreet, Inc. v. Ferguson, 2008 WL 5102378, at *4 (W.D. Wash. 2008), citing United States v. Puerta, 982 F.2d

1 Mutual Insurance Company (“Oregon Mutual” or “Plaintiff”) is an Oregon-based 2 insurance company that issued an automobile insurance policy (the “Policy”) to Bruce
3 Barkley, father of Defendant Breanna Barkley (“Defendant” or “Ms. Barkley”). Dkt. #
4 1 at 2, ¶ 1. The policy was negotiated and signed in Washington, where Ms. Barkley
5 and her parents lived. Dkt. # 1 at 2, ¶ 4. In 2010, Ms. Barkley “temporarily” moved to 6 Georgia to seek medical treatment. Dkt. # 12, Ex. C. Due to an earlier car accident in 7 2006, Ms. Barkley is disabled and unable to drive. Dkt. # 12, Ex. C.

8 In February 2011, Ms. Barkley was injured in a car accident when the car she 9 was in was rear-ended by another vehicle, driven by Timothy McTyre. Dkt. # 1 at 3, ¶
10 4. Shortly after the accident, Cynthia Barkley (Ms. Barkley’s mother), called Oregon
11 Mutual to notify them of the accident and make a claim on Ms. Barkley’s behalf. Dkt.
12 #1 at 3, ¶ 8; Dkt. # 12, Ex. B. In 2013, Ms. Barkley sued Mr. McTyre in Georgia state
13 court (Breanne Lee Barkley et al. v. Timothy Allen McTyre, State Court of Cobb 14 County, State of Georgia, Case No. 2013A335-4 (the “McTyre suit”)). Dkt. # 9 at 2.
15 Ms. Barkley later settled with Mr. McTyre and other insurance carriers in connection 16 with the McTyre suit. Dkt. # 9 at 2. Oregon Mutual alleges that Ms. Barkley failed to 17 notify it of the settlement, impairing its ability to recover through subrogation against 18 third parties. Dkt. # 1 at 3, ¶ 6.

19 Oregon Mutual now sues, requesting a declaratory judgment that it has no duty to 20 defend, indemnify, or pay insurance benefits with respect to any injuries suffered by 21 Ms. Barkley in the underlying McTyre suit. Dkt. # 1. Ms. Barkley moves to dismiss 22 Oregon Mutual’s complaint for lack of personal jurisdiction and improper venue. Dkt.
23 # 9.

25
26 1297, 1300 n. 1 (9th Cir. 1992). The Court will grant Defendant’s request through its 27 surreply to strike any arguments and exhibits raised by Plaintiff for the first time in her Reply.

II. DISCUSSION

A. Personal Jurisdiction

In a case like this one, where no federal statute governs personal jurisdiction, the court's jurisdictional analysis starts with the "long-arm" statute of the state in which the court sits. Glencore Grain Rotterdam B.V. v. Shivnath Rai Harnarain Co., 284 F.3d 1114, 1123 (9th Cir. 2002). Washington's long-arm statute (RCW § 4.28.185) extends personal jurisdiction to the broadest reach that the Due Process Clause of the federal Constitution permits. Shute v. Carnival Cruise Lines, 113 Wash. 2d 763, 771 (1989). Plaintiff has the burden of establishing personal jurisdiction. Ziegler v. Indian River County, 64 F.3d 470, 473 (9th Cir. 1995). "It is well established that where the district court relies solely on affidavits and discovery materials, the plaintiff need only establish a prima facie case of jurisdiction." Rano v. Sipa Press, Inc., 987 F.2d 580, 587 n.3 (9th Cir. 1993). In determining whether Plaintiff has met this burden, any "uncontroverted allegations" in Plaintiff's complaint must be taken as true, and "conflicts between the facts contained in the parties' affidavits must be resolved in [Plaintiff's] favor for purposes of deciding whether a prima facie case for personal jurisdiction exists." AT&T v. Compagnie Bruxelles Lambert, 94 F.3d 586, 588 (9th Cir. 1996), supplemented, 95 F.3d 1156 (9th Cir. 1996) (internal citations omitted).

There are two types of personal jurisdiction: general and specific. Bancroft & Masters, Inc. v. Augusta Nat'l Inc., 223 F.3d 1082, 1086 (9th Cir. 2000). A defendant with "substantial" or "continuous and systematic" contacts with the forum state is subject to general jurisdiction, and can be haled into court on any action, even one unrelated to its contacts in the state. Bancroft & Masters, 223 F.3d at 1086. A defendant not subject to general jurisdiction may be subject to specific jurisdiction if the suit against it arises from its contacts with the forum state. Id. Plaintiff does not assert that Defendant is subject to general jurisdiction, so the Court will only consider whether the Defendant is subject to specific jurisdiction.

1 The Court applies a three-part test to determine whether the exercise of specific 2 jurisdiction over a non-resident defendant is appropriate: (1) the defendant has either 3 purposefully directed his activities toward the forum or purposely availed himself of the 4 privileges of conducting activities in the forum, (2) the plaintiff's claims arise out of the 5 defendant's forum-related activities, and (3) the exercise of jurisdiction is reasonable.
6 Axiom Foods, Inc. v. Acerchem Int'l, Inc., 874 F.3d 1064, 1068 (9th Cir. 2017).
7 Plaintiff bears the burden of satisfying the first two prongs. Schwarzenegger v. Fred
8 Martin Motor Co., 374 F.3d 797, 802 (9th Cir. 2004). The burden then shifts to 9 defendant to make a "compelling case" that the exercise of jurisdiction would not be 10 reasonable. Id.

11 1. Purposeful Availment

12 Purposeful availment and purposeful direction are "two distinct concepts."
13 Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d at 802. In the Ninth Circuit, tort cases typically require a 14 purposeful direction analysis, while contract cases typically require a purposeful
15 availment analysis. Washington Shoe Co. v. A-Z Sporting Goods, Inc., 704 F.3d 668, 16 672–73 (9th Cir. 2012). Here, Plaintiff's claims are based in contract, so the Court will 17 apply the purposeful availment test. "A showing that a defendant purposefully availed 18 himself of the privilege of doing business in a forum state typically consists of evidence 19 of the defendant's actions in the forum, such as executing or performing a contract
20 there." Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d at 802. By taking such actions, a defendant 21 "purposefully avails itself of the privilege of conducting activities within the forum 22 State, thus invoking the benefits and protections of its laws." Id. (quoting Hanson v.
23 Denckla, 357 U.S. 235, 253 (1958)). However, in return for the "benefits and 24 protections" of the forum state, the defendant must "submit to the burdens of litigation 25 in that forum." Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d at 802 (quoting Burger King, 471 U.S. at 26 476). The court must look to "prior negotiations and contemplated future consequences, 27 along with the terms of the contract and the parties' actual course of dealing" to 1 determine if the defendant's contacts are "substantial" and not merely "random,

2 fortuitous, or attenuated." Sher v. Johnson, 911 F.2d 1357, 1362 (quoting Burger King,
3 471 U.S. at 478 (internal quotations omitted)).

4 Ms. Barkley contends that she does not have sufficient minimum contacts with 5 Washington because she is currently a resident of Georgia and the accident giving rise
6 to her claim under the Policy occurred in Georgia. Dkt. # 9 at 4. Ms. Barkley also 7 notes that she is not a signatory to the Policy and thus was not in "privity" of the 8 contract. Dkt. # 9 at 4. The Court is unpersuaded.

9 At its core, Oregon Mutual's claim is based on an insurance policy that was 10 negotiated and signed in the state of Washington, while Ms. Barkley and her parents 11 were residents of Washington. Dkt. # 11 at 8. This is a contract dispute related to a 12 contract that was executed in Washington, not a tort dispute arising from Ms. Barkley's 13 accident in Georgia. Moreover, Ms. Barkley admits that at the time the policy was 14 issued and later when the claim was filed, she was a "resident" of her parents'
15 household in Washington – this is the basis for her claim to coverage under the Policy.
16 Dkt. # 12, Ex. C. Ms. Barkley cannot have her cake and eat it too. By submitting a 17 claim for coverage under the Policy and identifying herself as a "resident" of her 18 parents' household in Washington, Ms. Barkley purposefully availed herself of the 19 benefits and laws of this state.

20 To the extent that Ms. Barkley attempts to distance herself from the relevant
21 conduct in Washington by arguing that she was not a party to the contract, this too falls
22 short. Dkt. # 9 at 4. The claim for coverage was submitted on Ms. Barkley's behalf, 23 with the expectation that she would reap the benefits of an insurance policy that was 24 issued in Washington and is purportedly governed by Washington law. Dkt. # 11 at 8.
25 To hold that Ms. Barkley is not subject to personal jurisdiction solely because she did 26 not directly submit the claim would be absurd.

1 Ms. Barkley's connections with Washington are neither attenuated nor random.
2 The fact that she is now a resident of Georgia does not alter the minimum contacts
3 analysis. Steel v. United States, 813 F.2d 1545, 1549 (9th Cir. 1987) (holding minimum
4 contacts arise at the time of the events underlying the dispute). She has purposefully
5 availed herself of the "benefits and protections" of Washington and cannot now claim it 6 is unreasonable to be haled into court here. The Court finds that Plaintiff has 7 established a prima facie case that Ms. Barkley purposefully availed herself of 8 Washington.

9 2. Arising Out Of

10 The Ninth Circuit has adopted a "but for" analysis to determine whether the 11 claims at issue arose from a defendant's forum-related conduct. Menken v. Emm, 503
12 F.3d 1050, 1058 (9th Cir. 2007). "[T]he plaintiff's claim must be one which arises out 13 of or relates to the defendant's forum-related activities." Id. Here, Oregon Mutual 14 alleges that Ms. Barkley failed to notify it of the McTyre suit settlement in a timely 15 matter, as required under the Policy, impairing Oregon Mutual's ability to recover any 16 payment made under the Policy through subrogation against third parties. Dkt. #1.
17 Under the "but for" analysis, the Court finds that Plaintiff has alleged sufficient facts to 18 show that Oregon Mutual would not have suffered the alleged injury "but for" Ms.
19 Barkley submitting a claim for coverage under the Policy and failing to notify Oregon
20 Mutual of the McTyre settlement.

21 3. Exercise of Jurisdiction is Reasonable

22 As Oregon Mutual has satisfied the first two prongs required to establish specific 23 jurisdiction, the burden shifts to Ms. Barkley to make a "compelling case" that exercise 24 of jurisdiction is not reasonable. Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d at 802. There are seven 25 factors a court must consider when determining whether exercise of jurisdiction is 26 reasonable: "(1) the extent of the defendants' purposeful interjection into the forum 27 state's affairs; (2) the burden on the defendant of defending in the forum; (3) the extent

1 of conflict with the sovereignty of the defendants' state; (4) the forum state's interest in 2 adjudicating the dispute; (5) the most efficient judicial resolution of the controversy; (6)
3 the importance of the forum to the plaintiff's interest in convenient and effective relief;
4 and (7) the existence of an alternative forum." CE Distribution, LLC v. New Sensor
5 Corp., 380 F.3d 1107, 1112 (9th Cir. 2004).

6 Ms. Barkley advances no argument regarding this aspect of the specific 7 jurisdiction analysis in her Motion to Dismiss beyond noting that Washington has no
8 "special interest in adjudicating a dispute between a foreign corporation plaintiff and a 9 Georgia resident over a cause of action that arose in Georgia." Dkt. # 9 at 3. While Ms.
10 Barkley makes other arguments regarding why the exercise of jurisdiction would be 11 unreasonable in her Reply, "a movant may not raise new facts or arguments in [a] reply 12 brief." United States v. Puerta, 982 F.2d 1297, 1300 n.1 (9th Cir. 1992). As a result, 13 Ms. Barkley's new arguments will not be considered for the purposes of evaluating 14 whether she is subject to specific jurisdiction.

15 Ms. Barkley has not shown that it is unreasonable to subject her to suit in 16 Washington. Her interjection into Washington was deliberate and created continuing 17 obligations to Oregon Mutual. Regarding any potential burden on Ms. Barkley or out of 18 state witnesses, the court must keep in mind that "[w]ith the advances in transportation 19 and telecommunications and the increasing interstate practice of law, any burden is 20 substantially less than in days past." CE Distrib., LLC v. New Sensor Corp., 380 F.3d
21 1107, 1112 (9th Cir. 2004). Although Georgia's courts would provide an adequate 22 alternative forum, there is no suggestion that Georgia has a sovereign interest in this 23 dispute that outweighs Washington's "manifest interest in providing its residents with a 24 convenient forum for redressing injuries inflicted by out-of-state actors." Burger King, 25 471 U.S. at 473 (internal citation and quotation omitted). There is no suggestion that 26 resolving this dispute in Washington is inefficient.

1 The Court finds that Ms. Barkley falls short of establishing a “compelling” case
2 that the Court’s exercise of personal jurisdiction would be unreasonable. Accordingly,
3 the Court DENIES Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Personal Jurisdiction.

4 B. Venue

5 Ms. Barkley also contends that venue is improper under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b) and 6 asks that the Court dismiss or transfer this case pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a). Dkt. #
7 9 at 5. Venue is proper here for this declaratory judgment action because a substantial 8 part of the events giving rise to the insurance coverage dispute—including the 9 negotiation, payment and issuance of the policy—occurred in Washington. See 28
10 U.S.C. § 1391(a)(2). Accordingly, Ms. Barkley’s Motion to Dismiss for Improper
11 Venue is DENIED.

12 III. CONCLUSION

13 For the foregoing reasons, the Court DENIES Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss 14 for Lack of Personal Jurisdiction and Improper Venue.
